Wines of the valley

In news that has shocked at least one person, wines taste great. I should know, I've been drinking.

This intrepid reporter has spent weeks researching the taste of literally many wines, and in his expert – and sober – opinion, they were all fabulous.

In a shocking twist, the same wines were found to make said reporter more attractive, confident, and successful with the opposite sex. Of particular interest, the wines helped inspire a new interpretive dance style, coined by one awestruck passer-by as “get off my lawn, you drunken tool”.
